

Your qualified wholesaler and system integrator

We are the leading system integrator for thin-film module technology and an international wholesaler for photovoltaic solar systems, with a global network of subcontractors and a comprehensive product portfolio.

Blitzstrom do not only offer flexible technological solutions that are supported by our efficient and reliable logistics - we combine all that with a wide range of consulting services regarding system optimization and financing to form the integrated Blitzstrom service package.

We cater exclusively to solar installers/resellers and provide our customers with ready-to-go system kits that can be installed by qualified personnel. All the project planning is done by our engineers beforehand. This includes everything that is needed for correct field installation of the system - such as planning and load calculations for the mounting substructure (especially regarding wind and snow load) and detailed wiring diagrams.

Let our experience in thin-film solar technology work for you - today.
